Section-179 Cliff

IRS Section-179 allows businesses to immediately expense capital purchases and leases, up to a certain amount, from taxable earnings in the current tax year - versus amortizing the purchase across several years, or "depreciating" in accounting-speak. The qualifying items include everything from fork lifts to vehicles (with a gross vehicle weight over 6,000 lbs) to computer hardware and software (think: ACCU-DART!).

The "Fiscal Crisis Bill" (technically, H.R. 8: American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012), increased the limit for Section-179 deductions in 2012 and 2013 to a whopping $500,000. In 2014, barring any future action by Congress, that falls to only 5% of that - a measly $25,000.

For more complete information please visit <http://section179.org>, but the bottom line is that NOW is the time to be considering your capital purchases, as making them in 2013 as opposed to 2014 will yield a huge tax benefit. As an example, $200,000 in purchases/deductions in 2013 results in $72,000 of tax savings at the 36% tax bracket, which would be only a $9,000 savings in 2014!

ACCU-DART Case Study: Improve Inventory Accuracy and Traceability with Direct Integration

Big 8 Beverages Limited is a food manufacturer based in Stellarton, Nova Scotia. Managing the inventory of both raw materials and finished goods was filled with issues. All inventory was manually recorded into Sage 300 ERP the day after production was counted and verified. This caused countless accuracy errors, which in turn led to issues when trying to forecast the correct quantities for future production orders. As a food manufacture lot control traceability needs was additional priority.

Already extremely satisfied with their ERP system's ability to track and process day to day information, Big 8 Beverages needed an inventory management system to eliminate the manual data entry that was causing so many inaccuracies. They contacted their Sage 300 ERP reseller - DB Group Consulting Inc - to find a solution

ACCU-DART leverages the existing accounting system to improve inventory accuracy. ACCU-DART validates receiving, production, order fulfillment and updates directly to Sage 300 ERP including lot control traceability records - there is no second database to maintain, no second system to reconcile. When a transaction is posted through ACCU-DART, it is posted in the accounting system in real time.
